Puppy Love on Clifford

Dogs on Clifford just made too much sense... That's why this summer, Cannabis Corner teamed up with Buddy Love Dog Rescue for one of our favorite events yet: a block party dedicated to finding forever homes for some doggos! Our front yard, parking lot, and entire stretch of Clifford Avenue was filled with your favorite brand's reps, local vendors, games, giveaways, and best of all, adorable dogs and puppies looking for families. Whether guests were just stopping in to play with or pet the pups, or submit an adoption application, the vibes were high.

By the end of the day, every pup received adoption applications, with several cash deposits placed toward future adoptions. Safe to say, the puppies stole the show.

Buddy Love is a Rochester-area, foster-based rescue that works tirelessly to save unwanted and abandoned dogs, placing them in loving homes while promoting responsible pet ownership and spay/neuter efforts. We were proud to partner with them, alongside our friends at GTI and Dogwalkers, whose support helped make the event possible.

There was something special about seeing puppies playing in the yard, neighbors stopping by to meet them, and our community coming together around a great cause. We're already looking forward to teaming up with Buddy Love again, because if this event taught us anything, it's that dogs, community, and Clifford Avenue are a perfect match!

Budtender Pick of the Month

MFNY's new 1G Live Resin All-in-Ones have landed, pairing their terpene-rich, single-source resin with purpose-built hardware designed to deliver consistent flavor from the first draw to the last.

The UK Cheese is the standout for us, a rare MFNY hybrid with sweet, earthy, gassy flavor and a funky white-cheddar note, followed by a balanced, euphoric experience. It's a seriously dialed-in AIO and an easy contender for one of the best on New York's shelves.

Weed at the Farmers Market

You read that correctly. New York just changed the rules to allow licensed cannabis microbusinesses and dispensaries to sell at approved farmers markets and community events through expanded Cannabis Showcase Event permits. The law was signed August 6 and is specifically intended to give smaller cannabis businesses more opportunities to reach customers without needing the same storefront footprint or marketing budgets as larger operators.

Stay tuned... we might just take The Corner to a market near you!

What's New on the Shelf?

West Coast Legacy x New York Grown

Wizard Trees arrives in New York with serious West Coast pedigree. Born and grown in Los Angeles, the brand built its reputation around premium, small-batch flower and genetics developed with an obsessive focus on flavor, trichome production, and the overall experience, not simply chasing the highest THC number. Their catalog includes modern cult favorites like RS-11, Zoap, Zangria, and Zang Banger, making a Wizard Trees drop feel like a little piece of contemporary cannabis culture landing on our shelves.

Super Killer is another strain, and the kind of flower we love putting in front of customers who want their bud to make an impression. While the exact genetics and terpene profile can vary by cut and batch, Wizard Trees' approach is all about distinctive, expressive flower with serious bag appeal and layered flavor. And there's something especially cool about experiencing genetics with a West Coast reputation through New York-grown flower. The genetics may have traveled across the country, but the cultivation, climate, and craft behind the final product are distinctly ours.

For Rochester cannabis fans, that makes this more than another hyped name on the shelf. It's a chance to see how sought-after genetics translate into New York's emerging legal flower market, where local cultivators are taking nationally recognized genetics and putting their own growing expertise into the equation.

Keep a look out for Wizard Tree's Super Killer. It represents where New York cannabis is headed: world-class genetics, locally grown.
